LET'S CREATE

1

Brush the drawing gum onto the black canvas to mask off areas that need to remain free from water-based colour. The latex-based liquid is coloured so you can easily see where you are applying it.

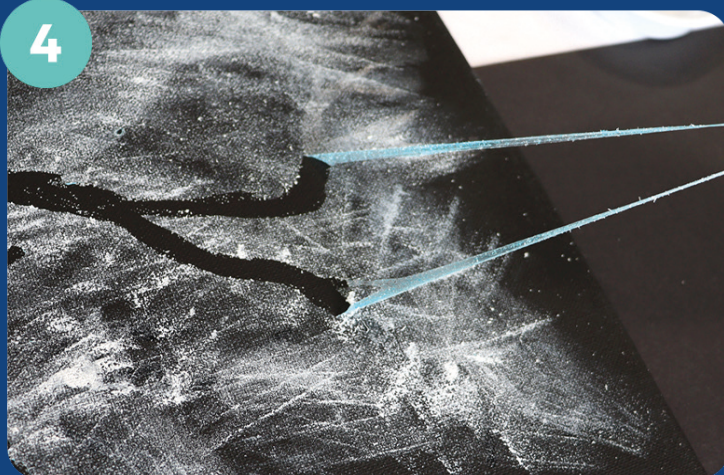

2

You can use a more delicate paintbrush to achieve small detailed areas that you don't want to cover with paint.

3

Once the gum has dried, apply a thin layer of acrylic paint over your design using a foam brush. Your background is now complete. You could also try other colours here or build up texture!

4

When your background layer has dried, gently rub off the drawing gum with your finger. It can also peel off altogether (See image).

LET'S CREATE

5

Once peeled off, your design will be revealed. TIP: Keep rubbing these areas for a crisp and clear outline.

6

Next, build up your design by using a pen-touch metallic marker for detail. It should stand out well against the black canvas.

7

Once finished, ensure your design is fully dry before hanging!
